IT WAS A PLACE FOR LEARNING

In one way or another high school became a learning experience for each one of us. Through our classes we gained a practical knowledge that would become useful in our everyday lives and hopes for the future. We learned to accept failures and most of all, to be proud of our accomplishments. Learning was not confined only academically but extended socially. Through activities, clubs, and sports we gained a sense of sportsmanship, cooperation, and friendship.

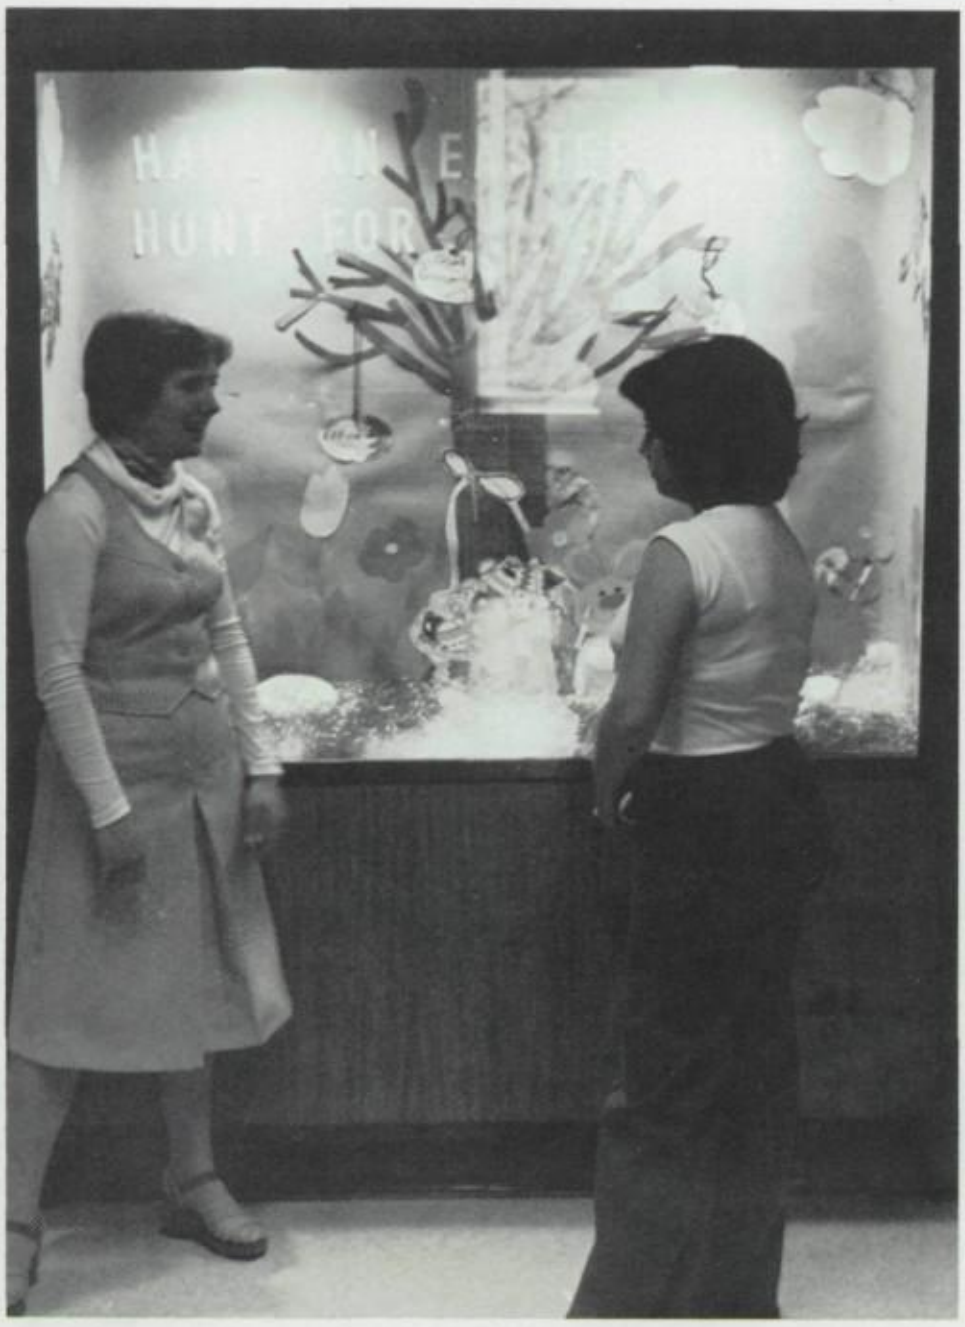
Students like Andy Steed (below) worked at the sports they liked best. Preparing food was one of the duties of students in single living (left). Many students found study hall a time to chat with friends (bottom left). Missy Bonham and Jenny Gerken cuaght up on the news during sixth period (bottom right).

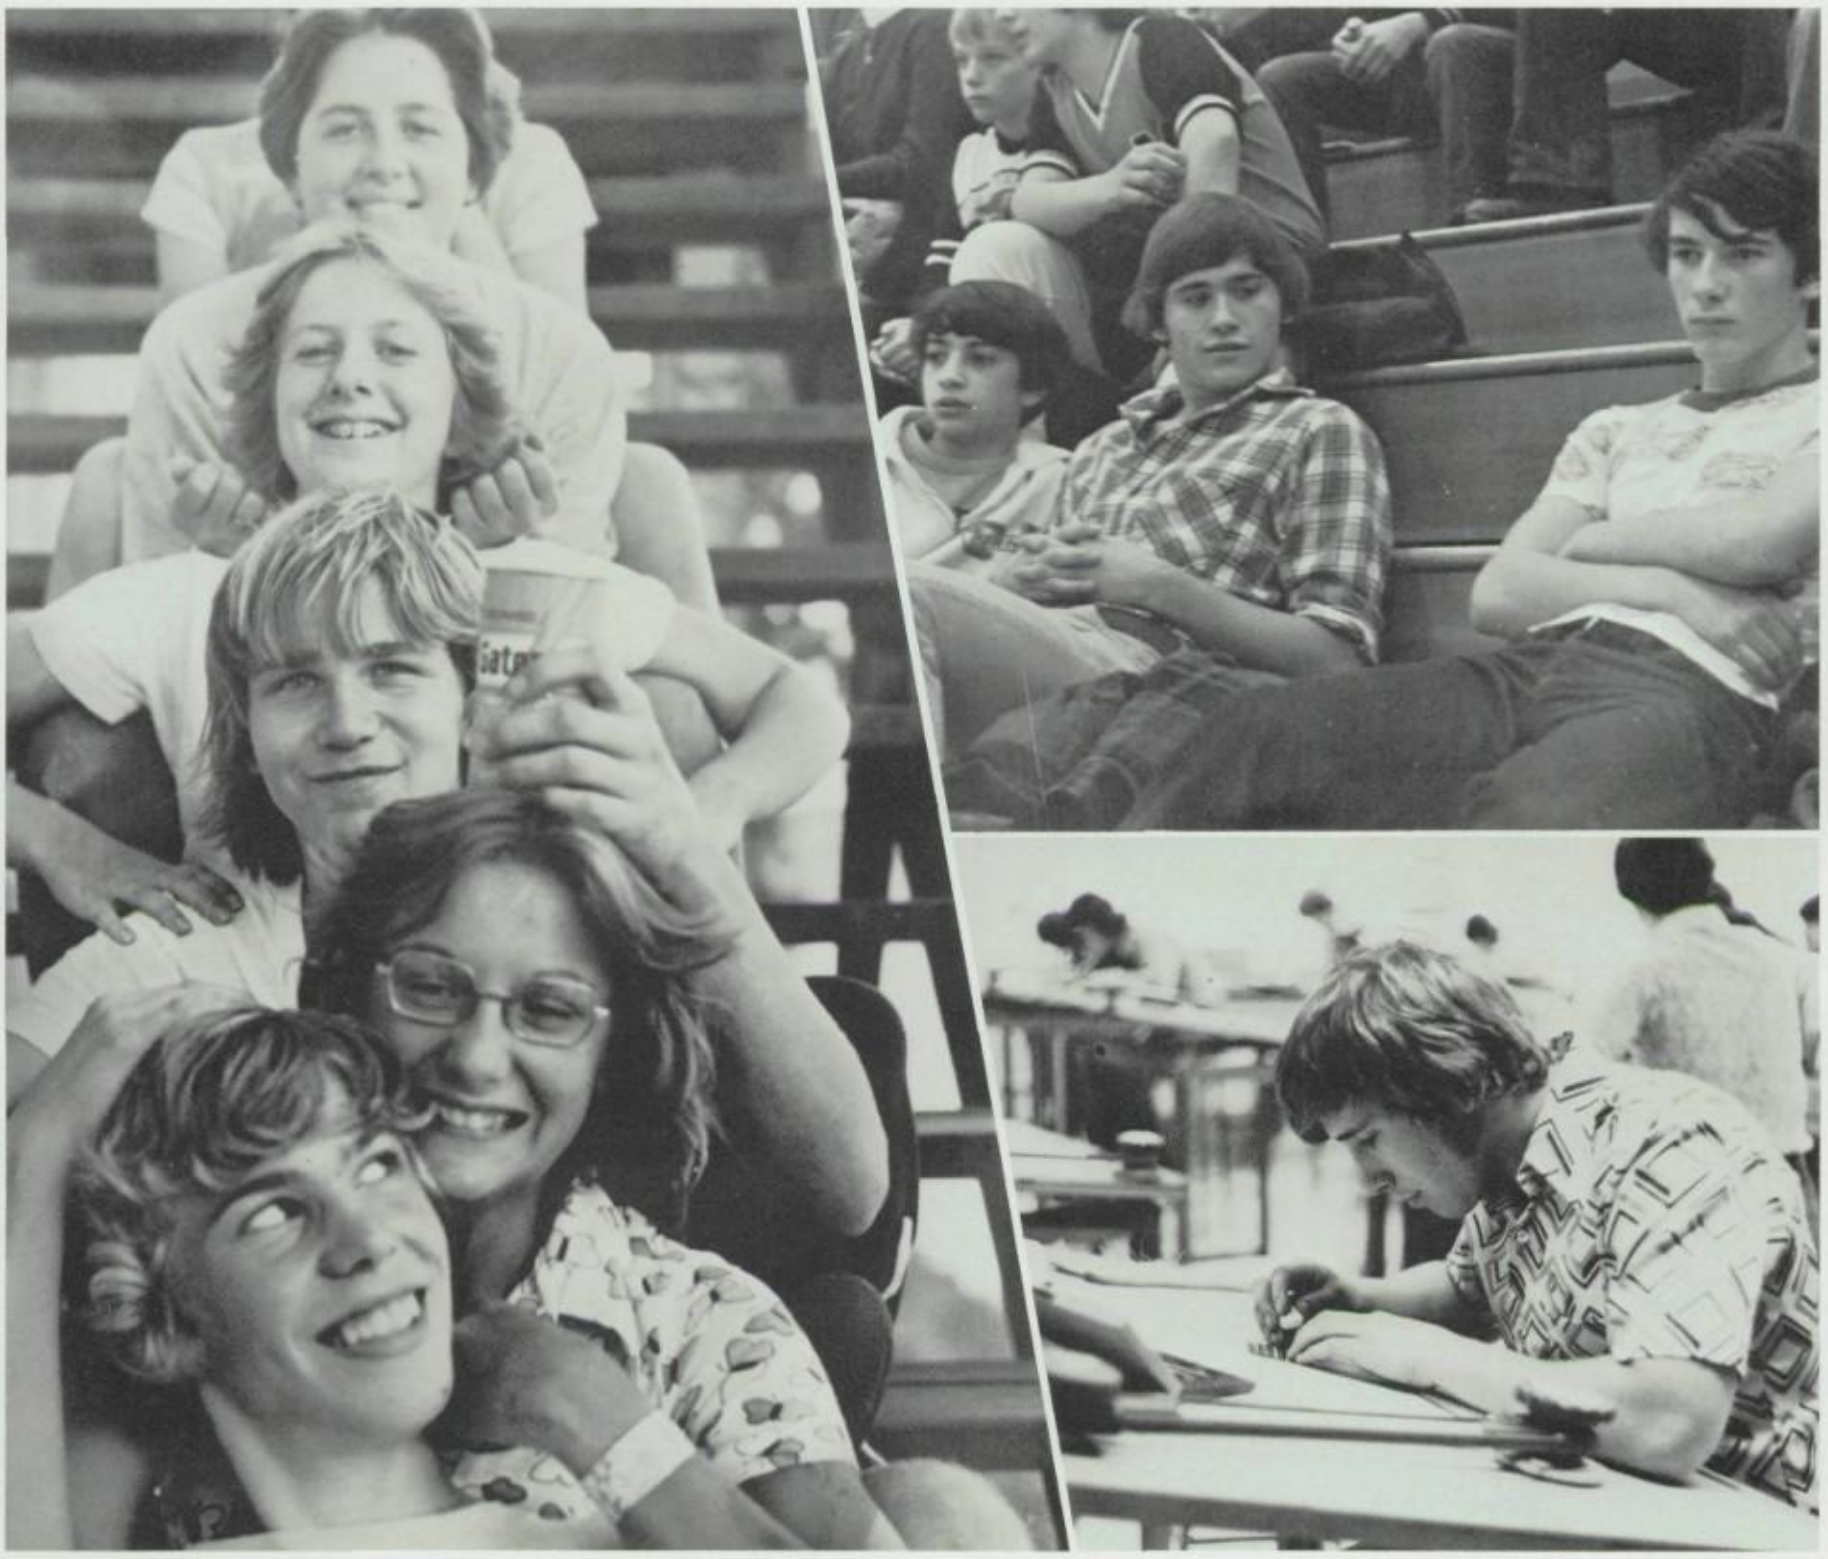


IT WAS A TIME FOR ENJOYING

School was not just a place for learning but a time for enjoying. Being with friends and participating in extra-curricular activities played an important part in our school lives.

Just meeting and talking with friends made the school day more enjoyable.

One of the big social events of the year was the Junior-Senior Prom sponsored by the Junior class (above left). Steve Dixon (above right) enjoyed a game of chess during his lunch period.



STUDENT LIFE

Homecoming brought traditional activities. Spirit week, which began on Monday and ended on Friday, included Brownie Day, poster day, paint-the-rock day, and 50's day. A traditional pep assembly on Friday concluded spirit week. On Friday night even the weather proved somewhat traditional as rain, for the third time in three years, hampered fans, players, queen candidates and floats. Activities culminated on Saturday night with the traditional dance at the Betsey Mills Club.

A. Juniors captured the float competition with "Nail the Devils."
B. A group of spirited sophomores participated in the Homecoming parade.
C. The Senior float, "Spread the Devils," led the parade at Don Drumm Field during halftime.
D. Slogans such as this represented the spirit of the student body during spirit week.

A. Queen candidates and their escorts tried to keep dry with umbrellas and drop cloths.
B. Cheerleaders and Tabby showed their spirit during the Homecoming parade.
C. LouAnn Moore, escorted by Rod Cline, was crowned Homecoming queen.
D. Queen candidates were Cathy Combs, Kim Foster, Micki Tullius, LouAnn Moore, and Vicki Boice.

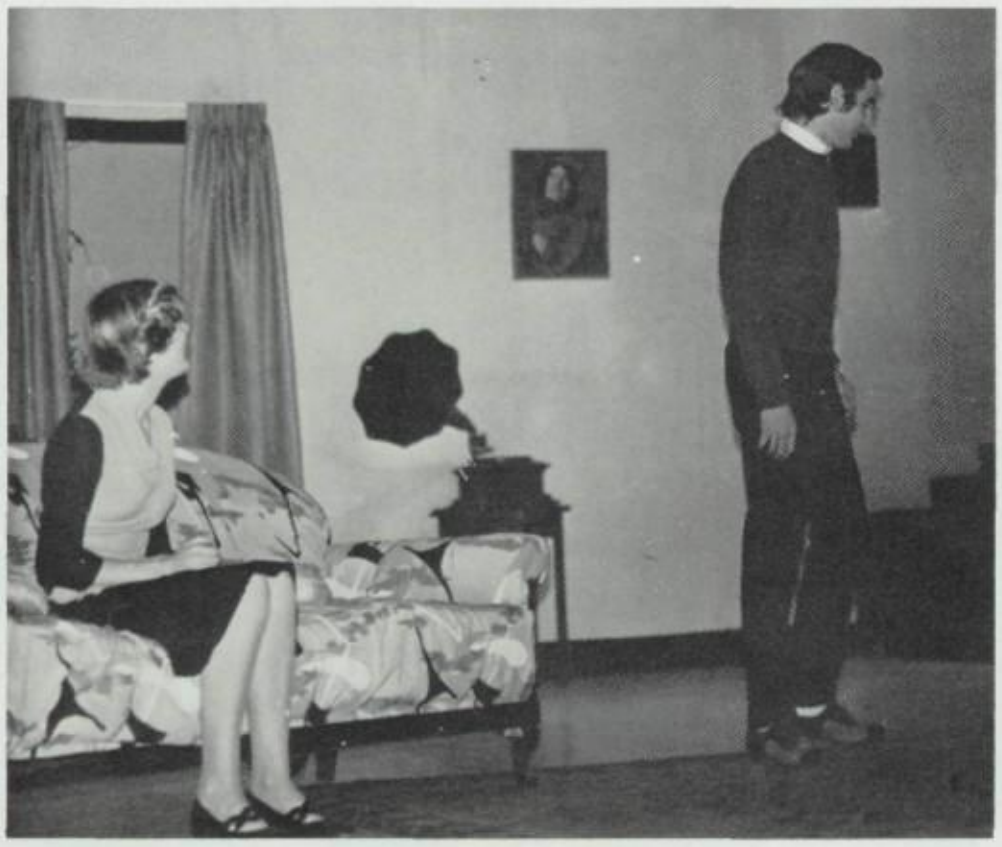
SENIORS PRESENT

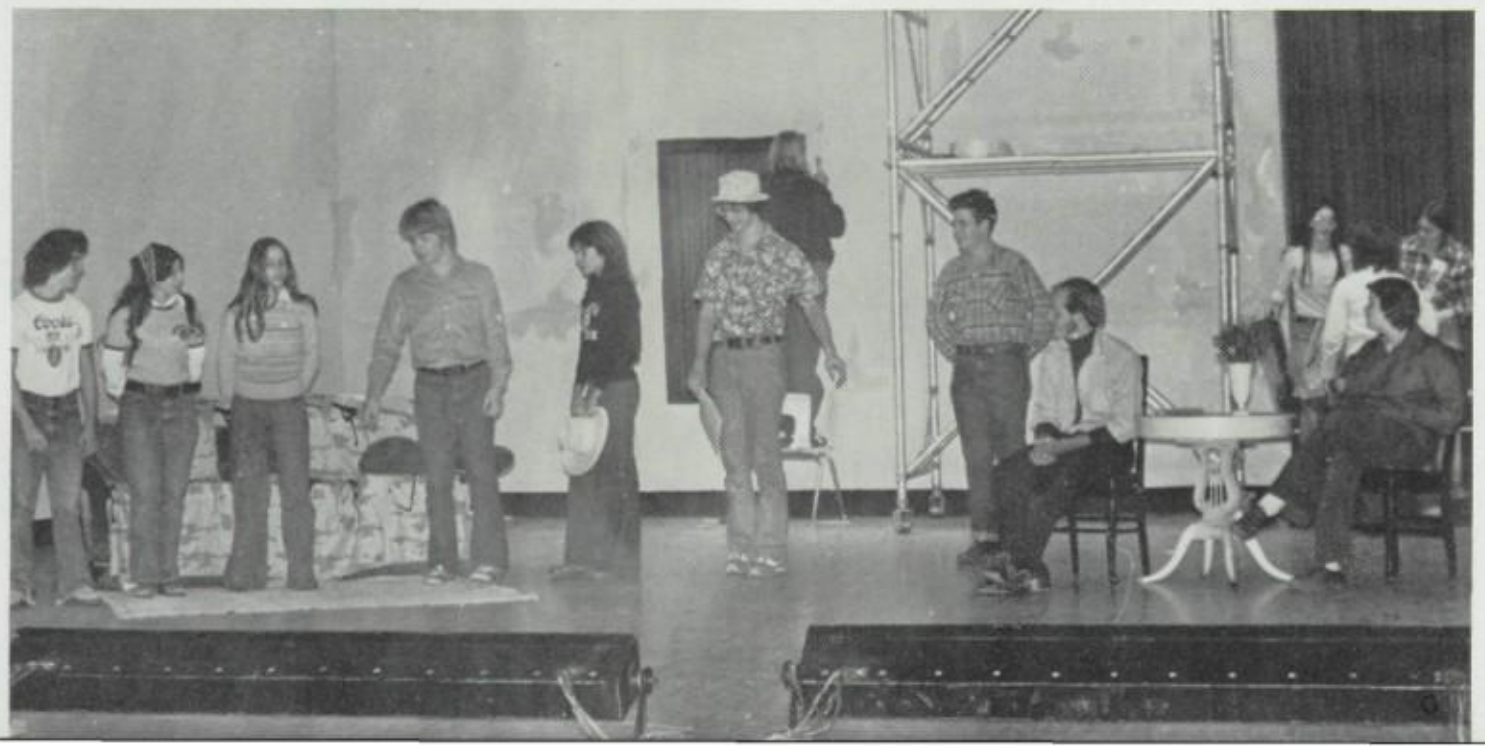
Approximately fifty seniors presented the play "Cheaper by the Dozen" on November 19, 20, and 21. Preparations began over a month before the actual performances.

The play itself centered around the Gilbreth family. Mr. Gilbreth, Steve Dixon, had an energy saving method for everything, was rather strict, and was constantly encouraging his children to study and skip grades if possible. He wanted the children to be capable of taking care of their mother and to get far in the world, for he was slowly dying of a heart disease that none of the children knew about. Mr. Gilbreth didn't want his oldest daughter, Anne, to get involved with boys, fearing they would ruin her future. Anne was confused and tormented by his attitude towards boys, stockings, makeup, and other things that make girls attractive. Friction was always rising between them until the day Anne became aware of his illness. She then understood why her father had been so strict.

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN

A. Mrs. Jeannette Hale, director, and John Sands, student director, headed the construction of the play.
B. Tammy Dyar played the part of Anne, while Fred Abrolat portrayed cheerleader Joe Scales.
C. Tammy Dyar, Kim Noel, and Teresa Conley were cast as the three aspiring daughters in the play.
D. Kent Hall, Dan Young, and Jim Lyons worked behind the scenes.
E. Joe Parlin, portraying Larry, fought a constant battle for Anne's love.
F. Rehearsal hours were held after school and in the evenings.
G. Richard Wynn as Bill, Dennis Harold as Frank, Kim Noel as Martha, and Teresa Conley as Ernestine, congregated in the Gilbreth's living room, the scene of the entire play.





December,
month of holly, pine,
and balsam,
Of berries red,
Of candles mellow light;
Of home and fireside,
laughter, happy faces,
of peace that came upon the holy night.

— from an Old Carol —

A group of carolers sang familiar Christmas songs throughout the cafeteria and halls before Christmas week.

MUSICIANS UNITE

The all school play, THE KING AND I, involved over a hundred students, including actors, dancers, musicians, and committee persons. Performed for the public on March 4, 5, and 6, THE KING AND I dealt with the experiences of an English school teacher, who was hired to go to Thailand to teach the King's children the European ways of life. The King and the school teacher, Anna, were often in conflict. Among other things, Anna couldn't understand the submissiveness of the wives towards the King. However, the King and Anna would generally compromise their differences, but only after very heated debates.

Other episodes of the play were concerned with the hardships of two lovers. The girl, Tuptim, was a princess given to the King to become one of his slaves. She was supposed to love only the King, but she loved LunTha, an Emissary from Burma who came to Thailand to take care of some business and to check on the temples. When the King discovered their love, he wanted to impose severe punishment upon them. Anna believed this was cruel and inhumane. A ballet was performed for the King when some English guests came to visit. This ballet was taken from the story, THE HOUSE OF UNCLE THOMAS. Tuptim had arranged the ballet to display to the King the sad story of her and LunTha.

Near the end, Anna had decided to leave Thailand, but with the love and begging of the children, she chose to stay. In the meantime, the King had become very ill and lay on his death bed. As the play closed, he died. Even though the ending was sad, new hope arose from Prince Chululongkorn, the new king.

In the last scene of the play the King lay on his death bed, while Prince Chululongkorn, Anna, and Lady Thiang looked (top).

Patty Trzciak, Tricia Wood, Terri Dersham, Miriam Stokes, and Barb Love participated in the ballet scene (above).

THREE STUDENTS

Dear Friends,

When Lizzette and I first thought about learning English, we didn't think that it would take such a short time to become interested about the American culture also.

We decided to apply for AFS and an American family for one year in the U.S.A.

In August 1976, when we arrived in Marietta, we knew we would face many challenges because of the new language and the new life style. Our American families who helped us a lot throughout our experiences, introduced us to the American way of life.

After school started in September and many of you became our friends, things became a lot easier for us.

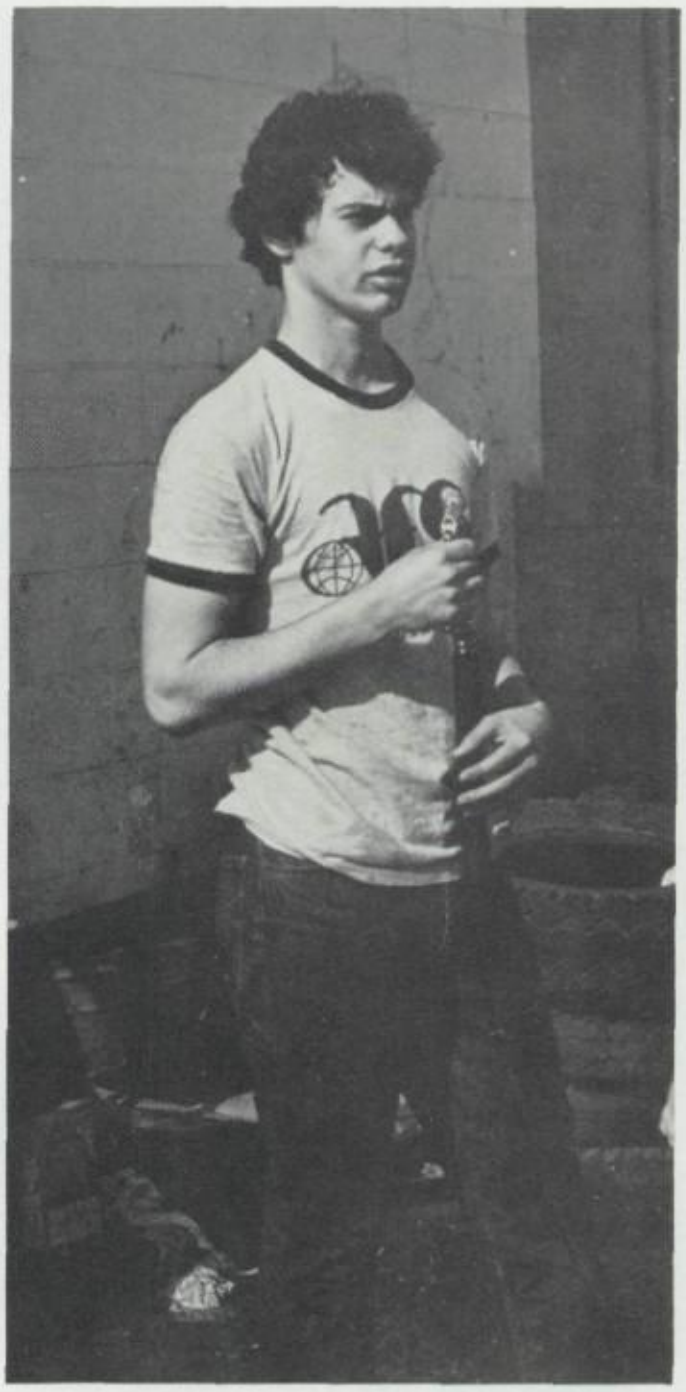
We had a great time at school. We have learned about your community, about your country, and we also understand your customs better.

Going to the high school games and cheering for the Tigers was a lot of fun also.

It sure happened to be an unforgettable year for us. We could share our ideas with people and people could share their ideas with us.

We are really grateful for everyone who contributed so that we could come to the USA and have such a nice stay among you. Thank you,

Jose Cesar Gazoni Martins, from Brazil
Lizzette Gonzales Romero, from Honduras
May 1977



Cesar Martins, exchange student from Brazil, joined in the AFS car wash.

Kim Noel visited Iceland as a part of the AFS summer exchange program.

During the day, the staff drew layouts, cropped pictures, and wrote out lines and copy; then after school they organized group pictures and thought of ideas for layouts. Even though there was a lot of hard work involved in publishing the yearbook it gave the staff a way of learning, how they react under pressure and what their journalistic abilities are.

ORIGINAL PREPARES

Original staff members worked hard all year to meet deadlines. They published the ORIGINAL tri-weekly and the "Tiger Times" bi-weekly. The staff raised money by selling ads and sections of the ORIGINAL to patrons. With some of this money the staff purchased a waxer for the purpose of pasting-up the layouts. Reporters for the staff got their information for the articles by interviewing students and teachers. Editor Fred Abrolat approved the articles before they went to press.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL PROGRAM OFFERS MANY CHOICES

B. Rodney Dye and James Lamp had the opportunity to work with electronics.
C. Shelly Sinnet and Linda McKnight gained experience in the business office machines class.

A

A variety of advantages was offered to the student whose interests lay in the fields of more manipulative skills. The high school student had his choice of either staying at the local high school or attending the vocational school where he was able to enroll in any one of a variety of courses, designed with the student in mind. The student was also able to take his pick of either the one-or-two-year course. The one-year course was a sort of on-the-job training, having the students attend a class for about two hours each morning and then sending them to their designated work stations. In this way students were able to obtain an education and earn some money at the same time. The two-year programs were designed to give the student enough skill to gain initial entry into most jobs, or if he desired, to enroll in another four-year course.

A. Debi Brown and Anita Thomas were able to become licensed cosmetologists upon completion of the cosmetology course.

After these two losses, however, Marietta was victorious for nine more games including a vengeful win over Newark. After losing to the Parkersburg Big Reds, they went on to conquer Upper Arlington before losing to Grove City — by one point. Entering tournament play, the tigers beat Chillicothe for the sectional championship. They went on to capture the district title with victories over New Philly and Cambridge. The tigers' winning ways came to a halt in the regional tournament against Columbus Marion Franklin and their six-foot, eleven-inch senior, Herbie Williams.

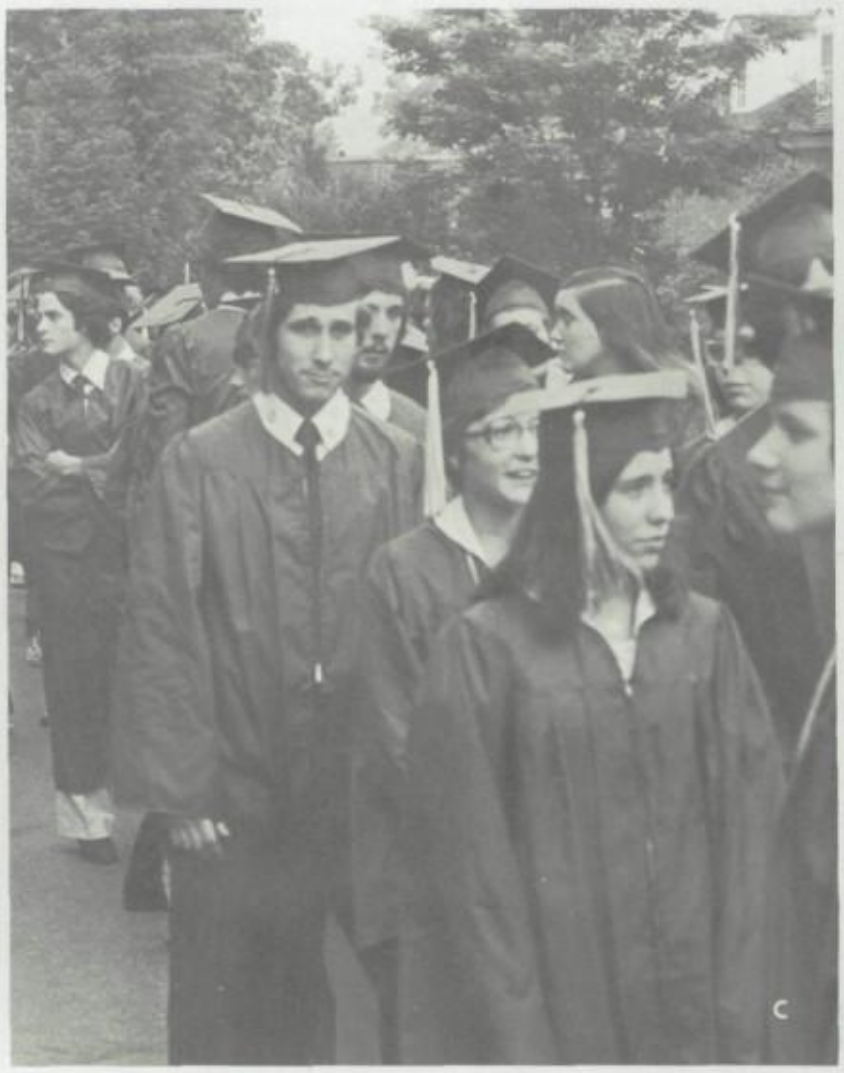
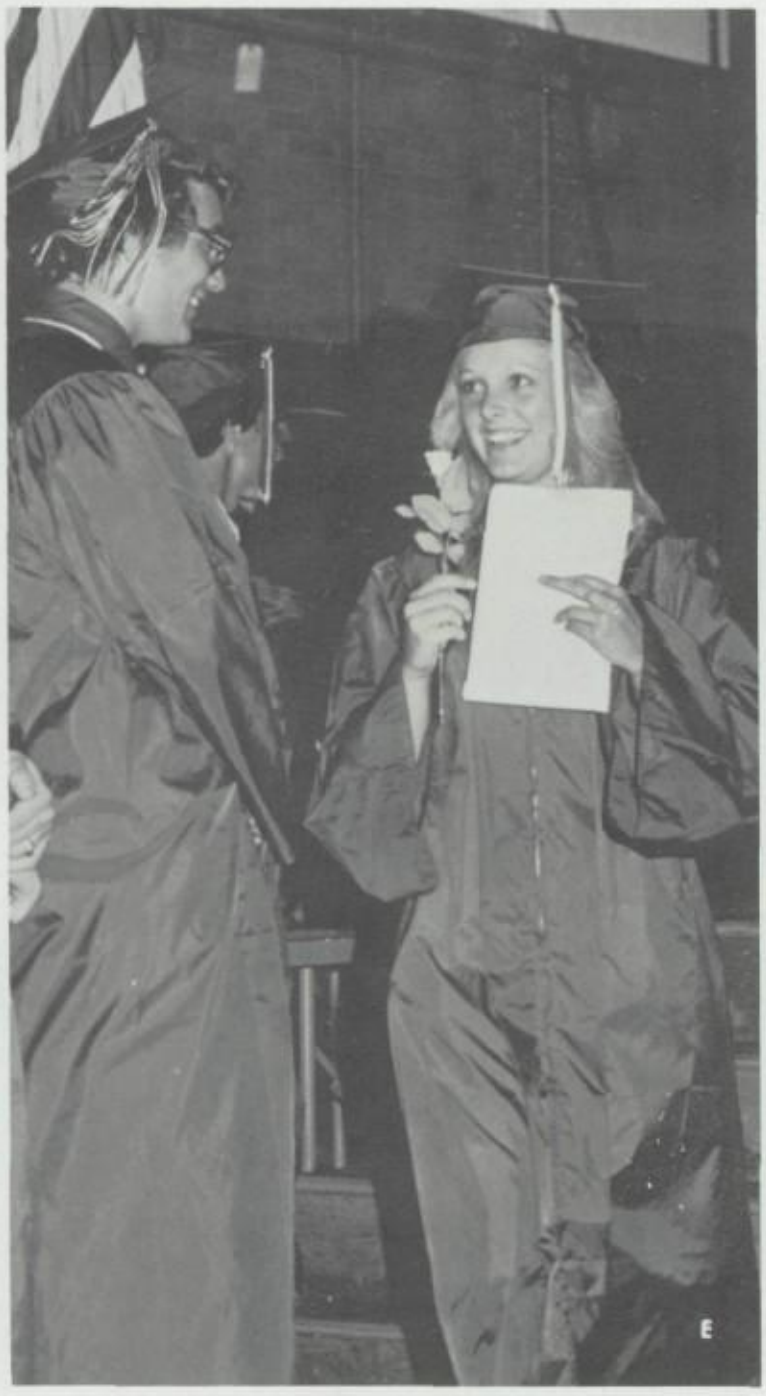
440 SENIORS RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS

Marietta High held its 125th commencement program on June 5, 1977. The graduation ceremony took place inside the Ban Johnson Field House due to the threatening rain clouds. 440 seniors along with 5 juniors received their diplomas from the president and vice-president of the City Board of Education. All honors and awards were announced on Friday morning at the annual Senior Recognition Assembly. Other activities preceeding the graduation included the boat dance, class picnic, senior breakfast and the senior memories assembly.



A. Brian Snediker, president of the class of 1978, led the graduates with the 'senior pole'.
B. Mr. Bett, Donna Biehl, president, and Roger Patterson, vice-president, of the Board of Education, prepared to hand out the diplomas.
C. Outside the graduates awaited their entrance.
D. Each senior waited for his or her name to be announced.
E. Vickie Boice received congratulations from class vice-president Eric Robinson.
F. Everyone remained standing until all the seniors completed their march.



SUMMER . . .

A time for exploring; for visiting our own country or one of its regions;
for seeing a foreign land; for learning more of nature.

— Gilbert Highet —

Diana Pickering spent most of her summer lifeguarding at Jackson Pool.

Jim Luce visited a castle in Ausbach during his one month visit in Germany.

Micki Tullius offered her services in the Jaycees "Dilly Dunker" during the county fair.

LEFT: Junior Lisa Buzzard played slow pitch for Fentons Art Glass. BELOW: On their last day of band camp at Lancaster, the band performed for visitors and parents.

AUTUMN

The melancholy days are come;
the saddest of the year,
Of wailing winds,
and naked woods,
and meadows brown and sear.

— William Cullen Bryant —

An unidentified witch haunted people during the Halloween season (right). Muskingum Park became a place to relax with friends during the autumn months (below).

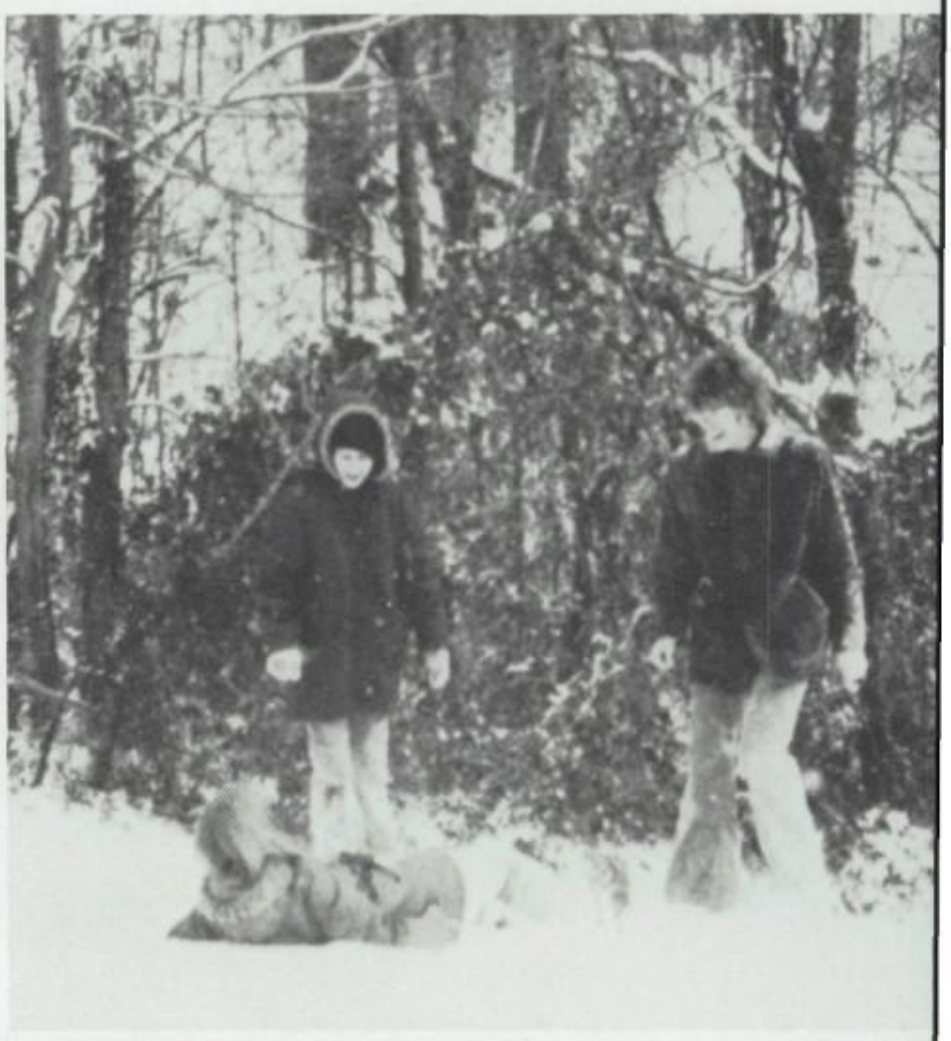
WINTER . . .

There's a chime in the glitter
of the snow,
There's a song of the frost,
there's a whistle of the ice.
In the breeze there's a gentle blow.
The sun — it's lost. Winter is nice.

— Karen Orendurff —

Dave Wesel prepared a surprise snowball attack on Peter Pannier (left). Dave Yeager (lower left) along with many other students enjoyed the outdoor activities the first snow brought. By the expresssions on their faces, Sherry Croston and Carla Brannon (below) had mixed emotions about the weather.

Bill Stacy, Pat Knight, Tony Carver, and Jim Hill (left), performed a daring feat by walking on the ice covered Ohio River. (Below) Some students had a hard time standing on two feet during the snowy weather.



The excitement of the first snow brought students out of the building during the lunch periods.

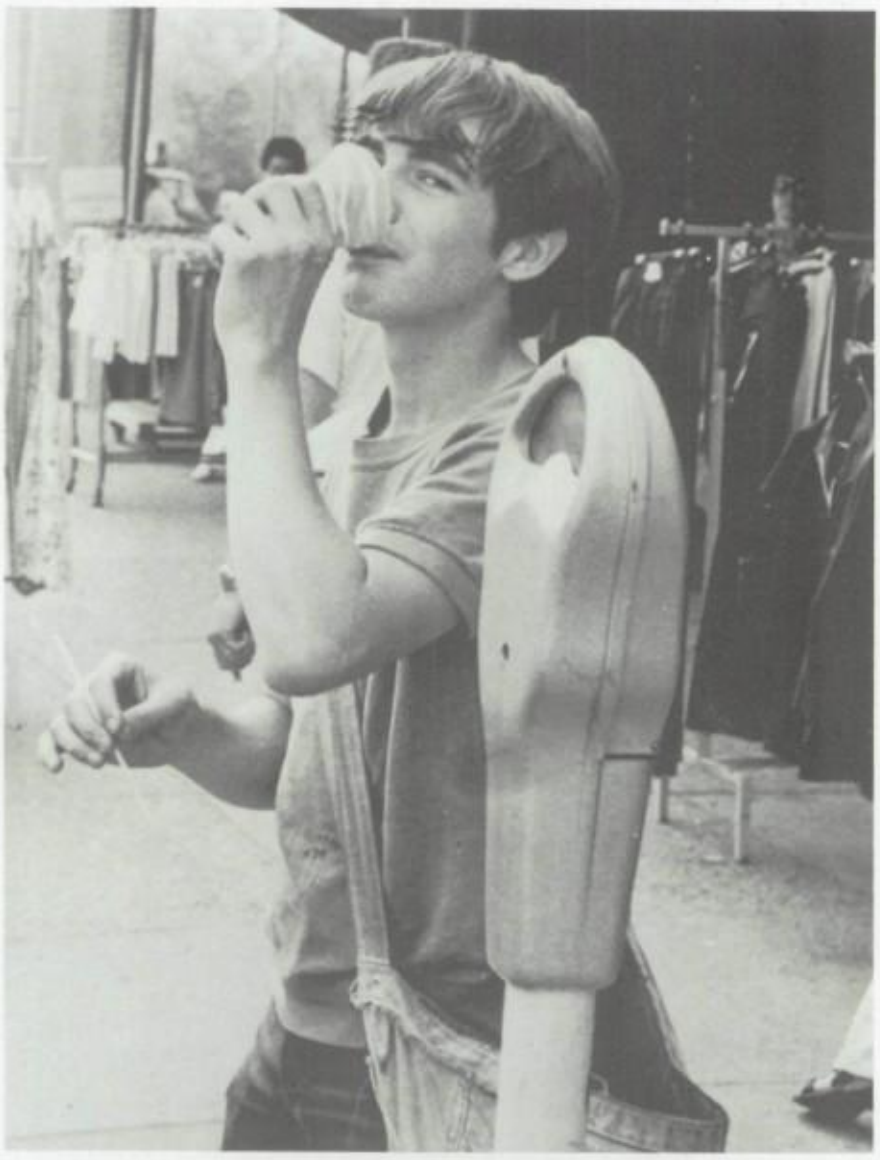
SPRING . . .



There is no time like spring,
when life's alive in every thing.
— Christina Rossetti —

Jim Holland (left) took a refreshment break after delivering newspapers in the downtown area. When the warm weather hit, the coolest place to work in the library was near the windows (below).

Karen Starr rested in the park during the outdoor living days held downtown.

Students in the art classes worked on their projects outdoors in the warm weather (above). All kinds of sports were organized in Sacra Via Park and Vinh Vo was a part of them.
